

MediaCityUK Development Specified

High quality, competitive prices and excellent service, these are the factors that led to Click Scolmore's wiring accessories being chosen by electrical and mechanical contractors, W H Good Building Services, for the newly-opened Holiday Inn Hotel on the 200-acre MediaCityUK development in Manchester.

All rooms and main public areas in the 218-bedroom hotel in the heart of the Salford quays development have been fitted out with products from the Define range of accessories in a stainless steel finish, including 13A sockets, switches, media plates, TV, satellite, telephone and sockets.

Having used Click Scolmore's electrical accessories on a number of previous hotel projects - including the country's very first 'Hampton by

Hilton' in the Midlands and the Express by Holiday Inn in Manchester - Bryan Pursglove, from W H Good Building Services, had no hesitation in specifying the Click brand for this latest assignment: "Click Scolmore has a solid reputation for quality, price and service which makes them the obvious choice for a prestigious hotel development like this one. The flat-plate design of the Define range has allowed us to achieve a stylish yet subtle and co-ordinated look in keeping with the overall contemporary feel."

The Holiday Inn hotel forms part of the first commercial phase of the MediaCityUK development which comprises 36 acres and will include film studios, office, apartments and retail units, plus a five acre public realm area which will include a 4.000 sq ft piazza.
