

First class finishing touches for luxury apartments

The transformation of the Victorian riverside Bonding Warehouse in York into four exclusive luxury apartments and office space is nearing completion, with a selection of state of the art wiring accessories from Scolmore Group playing a part in this stunning renovation.

Positioned against the banks of the River Ouse and just minutes from the heart of York's historic city centre, the Bonding Warehouse is a landmark building, originally built in 1869 to store taxable goods including wines and spirits and was converted for leisure use in the 1970's.

The entire top floor of the 7,000sq ft building has now been converted into two duplex and two single storey apartments, while the lower floors, complete with the latest flood defence barriers, have become luxury office space.

With around 30 double sockets and 10 switches in each apartment, and some 50 sockets in each of the offices, products from across Scolmore's Define, Definity and Deco wiring accessories range have been used. The ultra slim design of the Define range offers a subtle and contemporary solution, while Definity is a collection of screwless accessories that provides smooth, clean lines without the visible fixing screws. The popular Deco range is synonymous with high specification, high quality and long life.

Comments Marie Parry, Group Marketing Manager Scolmore: "With such a prestigious development of luxury apartments and offices, it is vital that all the finishing touches are in keeping with the style and high specification of the overall scheme and we are delighted that Scolmore's wiring accessories were selected to meet the high standards required."
